The Walking Dead

In the new world they'll find hope, possibility, tragedy and the terrifying cost of change

Rise up. All-Out War has begun and new battles lines are drawn in this post apocalyptic world.

Last year, Rick Grimes and his group of survivors were confronted with their deadliest challenge yet and the introduction of Negan and the Saviours broke our group. Feeling powerless under Negan's rules and demands, Rick advocated the group play along. But seeing that Negan couldn't be reasoned with, Rick began rallying together other communities affected by the Saviours. And with the support of the Hilltop and Kingdom, they finally have enough firepower to contest them.

This year, Rick brings "All Out War" to Negan and his forces. The Saviours are larger, better equipped, and ruthless - but Rick and the unified communities are fighting for the promise of a brighter future. The battle lines are drawn as they launch into a kinetic, action-packed offensive.

Up until now, survival has been the focus of Rick and our group, but it's not enough. They have to fight to take back their freedom so that they can live. So that they can rebuild. As with any battle, there will be losses. Casualties. But with Rick leading the Alexandrian forces, Maggie leading the Hilltop, and King Ezekiel leading the Kingdom - Negan and the Saviours' grip on this world may finally be coming to an end.

Genius: Picasso

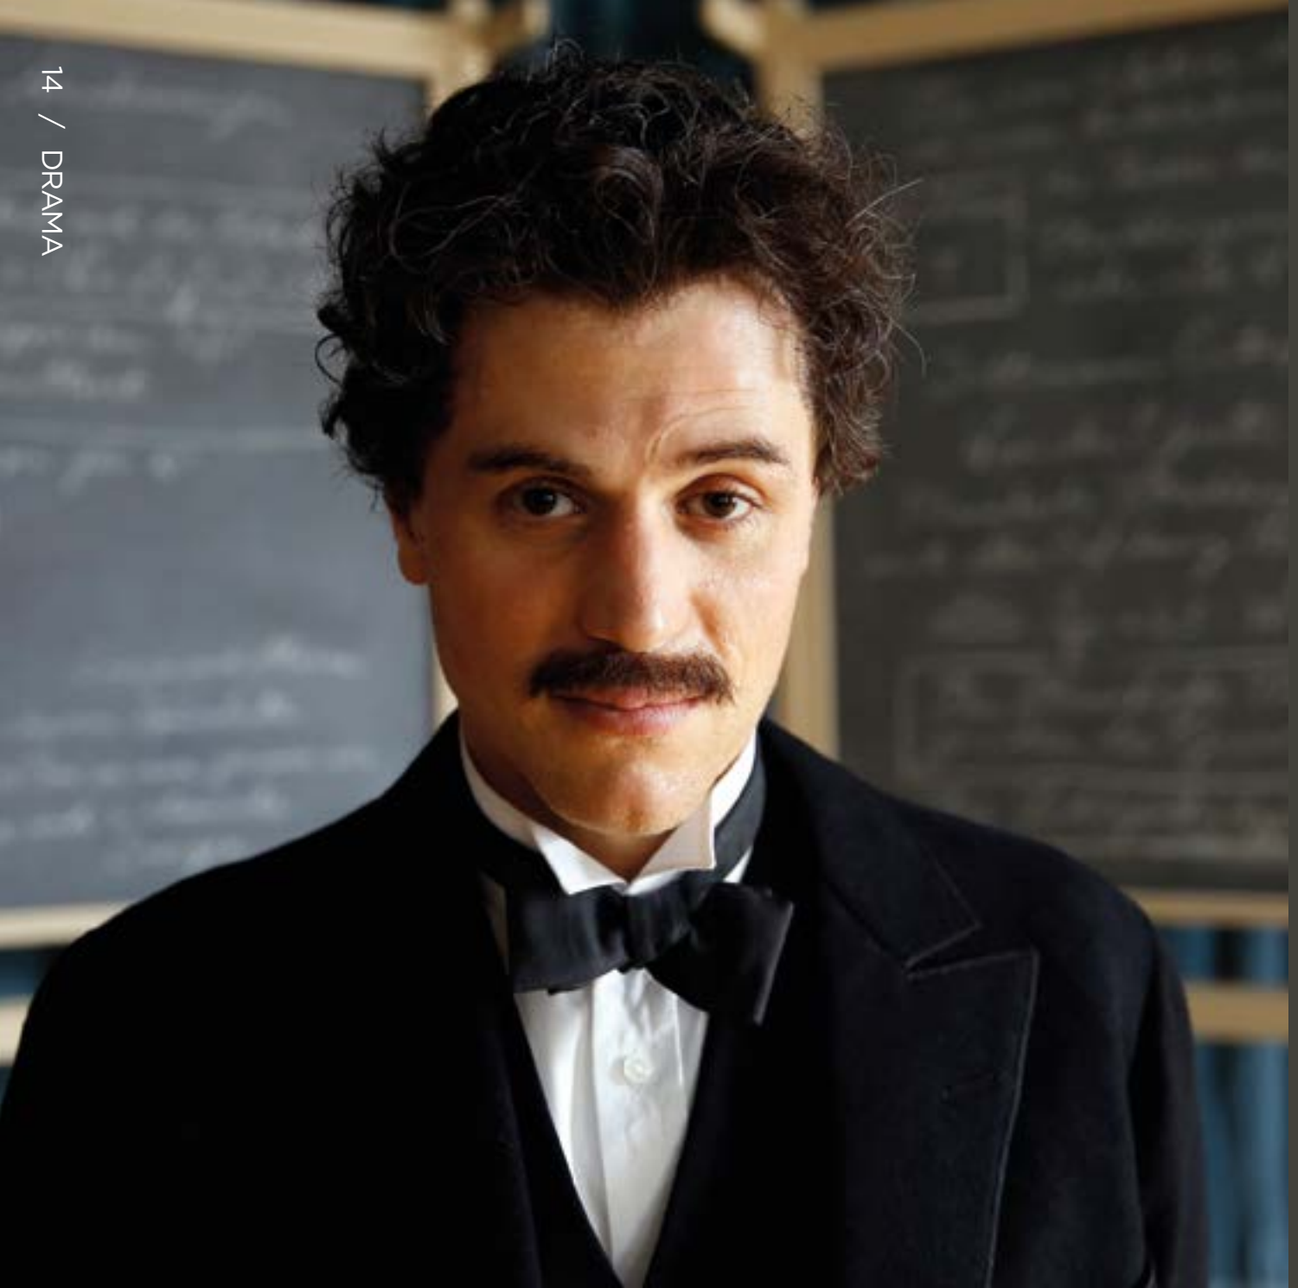

One of the 20th century's most celebrated and prolific artists

The incredible life of the tortured genius who transformed modern art.

Following the success of Genius: Einstein, National Geographic's first fully scripted drama, this wonderful anthology series returns, detailing the life and loves of the Spanish artistic genius Pablo Picasso – as well as highlighting his significant and wide-ranging contribution to modern art. Picasso is brought to life by Hollywood legend Antonio Banderas (The Legend of Zorro). Joining him as the younger Picasso, who rejects academic study and joins a circle of young bohemian artists and writers struggling to make it in early 20th century Spain and France, is Alex Rich (True Detective).

The series follows the tumultuous marriages, passionate affairs and ever-shifting political and personal alliances that sparked Picasso's creative drive and pushed his boundaries of artistic expression, leading to his worldwide renown as a genius. It explores the Spanish expatriate's devotion to his craft and we also learn of his relationships with the other well-known personalities that crossed his path, including Coco Chanel, Henri Matisse, Marc Chagall and Jean Cocteau.

Filmed in locations throughout Europe, including numerous places where Picasso lived and worked, Genius: Picasso features a stellar cast, including Samantha Colley and Johnny Flynn who return from Genius: Einstein in new roles.

Genius: Einstein

A revealing story about one of history's greatest minds

The extraordinary life and times of Albert Einstein.

Fiercely independent, innately brilliant, eternally curious, Einstein changed the way we view the universe. And this much-acclaimed new drama series will change the way we view this legendary physicist and international icon. From his early failures and achievements in the world of academics, to his emotionally fraught search for love and human connection, Genius paints a portrait of the real Albert Einstein in all his complexity.

Based on the book, Einstein: His Life and Universe, by Walter Isaacson, the series charts his humble origins and struggle as a rebellious young thinker striving to be recognised by the academic establishment. It follows his escape to America from Nazi Germany, his two marriages, numerous affairs and finally, his acceptance by his peers and celebrity status following the disclosure of the theory of relativity.

Produced by Academy Award®-winners Ron Howard and Brian Grazer, and with a standout international cast, Genius: Einstein is a beautifully produced, sweeping historical biography that grips from its opening scenes, right up to its final episode.

Deep State

Who's in Control?

A former spy embarks on one last - and intensely personal – journey.

Deep State is a brilliant new international espionage thriller starring Mark Strong as Max Easton, an ex-spy brought back into the field to avenge the death of his son (who had followed in his footsteps), only to find himself at the heart of a covert intelligence war and a conspiracy to profit from the spread of chaos throughout the Middle East.

The story unfolds across the UK, US, Iran, Lebanon and France and contains a profound political dimension that asks questions about the connection between the representatives of the people and the big industries that profit from global conflicts. It's a story of supremely high stakes, a conspiracy that could topple governments and along the way includes hostage rescues, shoot-outs and manhunts. However, at its core, Deep State is an emotional drama about a family 'in extremis' in which intimate, intense personal relationships are pitted against an epic backdrop.

Visceral and riveting, Deep State is a rich, multi-layered drama with involving characters and a thrilling espionage storyline that raises prescient questions about big business, war and global politics. Ultimately, it is the journey of a man fighting to ensure the safety of those he loves, in the knowledge that you can never really have a second chance at life.

Legion

Power does not come free

A mutant with hidden powers is haunted by a powerful and malevolent force.

Legion, based on the Marvel Comics by Chris Claremont and Bill Sienkiewicz, is the story of David Haller, a man who believed himself to be schizophrenic only to discover that he may actually be the most powerful mutant the world has ever seen.

While in the latest of a long line of psychiatric institutions David falls in love with fellow patient Syd. When they share a startling encounter he is forced to confront the shocking possibility that the voices he hears and the visions he sees may actually be real. Syd leads David to Melanie Bird, a therapist who heads a team of extraordinary specialists. Together, they help David to recognise and harness his hidden powers, as well as unlock a deeply suppressed truth: he has been haunted his entire life by a powerful parasite. Known as the "Shadow King," this malevolent creature appeared in the form of David's friend Lenny, but is actually an ancient being named Amahl Farouk.

The demon is forced from David's body but soon finds a new host – Melanie's husband Oliver – and escapes. And then David disappears. With David and Oliver missing and Farouk on the loose, the team forms an unlikely alliance with their former enemy, Clark, and his well-funded government organisation, Division III. Meanwhile, Amahl Farouk is on a new path to attaining infinite and world-ending power.

Atlanta: Robbin' Season

Fake it 'til you make it

An authentic, subversive and sometimes surreal millennial coming of age comedy.

The critically acclaimed, genre-busting series returns. Starring, and created by, actor and Grammy-winning artist Donald Glover (Community), Atlanta revolves around Earnest "Earn" Marks (Glover), a loner who returns to his hometown of Atlanta, Georgia, after dropping out of Princeton. Upon his arrival he discovers his cousin, Alfred, has become Atlanta's hottest new rap act.

The show follows the cousins on their way up through the Atlanta rap scene, where their opposing views on art, commerce, success, and race make their quest anything but easy. This new season finds Earn quietly homeless, secretly living out of a storage space and perpetually on the lookout for a place to crash. Earn's future now depends on successfully managing Alfred's (aka Paper Boi) career. But not only is he an up and coming rap star, he's also a drug dealer. Along for the ride is Alfred's pothead philosopher sidekick Darius, whose unique observations epitomise Glover's claim that Atlanta is "Twin Peaks for rappers".

In Atlanta: Robbin' Season, the humour is a little darker and more twisted and the stark divide between the haves and have-nots in the city is crystal clear – but the juxtaposition of authentic everyday life against the surreal and weird is still there to delight its huge army of fans around the globe.

Mr Inbetween

Father. Lover. Friend. Hitman.

Father, ex-husband, boyfriend: tough roles to juggle in the modern age. Even harder when you're a hitman.

Ray Shoesmith is in his forties. He's got an eight-year-old daughter from a failed marriage, a dog and a brand new girlfriend. He also has anger issues, for which he's receiving treatment - court ordered treatment that is. He's gainfully employed and makes good money working for private industry. He's a problem solver of sorts; generally the problems are people related and the solution often involves violence, at which he excels. Of course, neither his daughter nor girlfriend have any idea what he does for a living....yet.

Mr Inbetween follows the daily trials and tribulations of Ray as he tries to balance life with daughter Brittany and establishing a relationship with Ally, while all the time trying to keep boss Freddy happy, best friend Gary out of trouble and in regular contact with his sick brother, Bruce. But life rarely runs smoothly for Ray and this entertaining drama delivers lots of surprising and comedic moments, including the wrong people being 'taken care of', abduction by a slow-witted bodyguard and a desperate need to hide a body...just as Gary's wife Tatiana arrives.

Packed with a raft of incredible characters and a punchy script, this exciting new series was inspired by Scott Ryan's critically acclaimed feature film The Magician, which Nash Edgerton and Michele Bennett also produced.

The Long Road Home

What's it really like to go to war?

A revealing and emotional story of war and family.

Based on Martha Raddatz's acclaimed best-selling book of the same name, The Long Road Home is a riveting and intimate portrait of war, and spearheads National Geographic's major new commitment to producing impactful, fully scripted drama.

The series tells the story of 'Black Sunday' and the eight-hour battle in Sadr City, Iraq, on the 4th of April 2004, which followed the ambush of a newly arrived American platoon. Told in real time through the eyes of untested soldiers in combat for the first time, their families anxiously awaiting news on the home front, and ordinary Iraqis trapped in the chaos of war, this compelling and immersive series gives viewers a moving and unforgettable portrait of what it's really like to go to war.

The Long Road Home take us beyond the myths...the chaos, terror, bonds, sacrifice, loss, hope and heartbreak and tells an authentic story about ordinary people in extraordinary situations and about who we each become in the forge of war, whether in the thick of battle or waiting at home. With a standout cast and a wide range of impressive off-screen talent at the helm, The Long Road Home is destined to become a landmark, must-see and memorable series about the realities of modern warfare.

The State

The harsh realities of life under ISIS

Four Brits leave their lives to commit to the caliphate.

The State is a powerful and hard-hitting new drama from the award-winning writer/director Peter Kosminsky (Wolf Hall, The Promise). A compelling and topical fictional story, based on extensive research, it follows the experiences of four young British men and women who leave their lives behind to join ISIS in Syria.

We meet Shakira, a doctor, and her young son Isaac, Ushna, a 16 year-old who sneaks out of her parents' house, and childhood friends Jalal and Ziyaad, both 19, as they travel across borders and undertake training. Jalal is following in the footsteps of his brother, who also defected to ISIS and died a martyr. He's an idealist who believes in the 'good fight' but after witnessing young girls being sold as slaves he begins to question everything. Shakira meanwhile is desperate to put her medical training to good use. She ends up working in a hospital but soon realises that in order to continue and have some freedom, she needs a husband for protection.

Unflinching in its portrayal of the hardships, brutality and everyday realities of life as members of the Islamic State, The State is a truly compelling drama, exploring one of the most complex and troubling issues of our age.

Possession is just the beginning

The dramatic series from Robert Kirkman, creator of The Walking Dead, returns.

In the eagerly awaited second season of Outcast, the exploration and mystery of what lies behind the supernatural manifestations and why they are drawn to Kyle Barnes (Patrick Fugit) continues.

As the possessions that have plagued him grow in scope and number, Kyle struggles to protect those he holds most dear. At his side are Reverend Anderson and Chief Giles, while his sister, Megan, grapples with her own demons. But otherworldly threats prove greater than Kyle could ever have anticipated. His struggle will grow into a fight for all of Rome, as he discovers the haunting secrets of his own past.

Outcast, based on the graphic novel of the same title, has been created by Robert Kirkman and artist Paul Azaceta. It follows Kyle Barnes, a young man who has been plagued by demonic possession all his life. Now, with the help of Reverend Anderson, a preacher with personal demons of his own, Kyle embarks on a journey to find answers and regain the normal life he lost. What he discovers could change his fate – and the fate of the world – forever.

Who shall inherit the earth in this brave new world?

The psychological thriller about a mysterious town that has got everybody talking.

Imagine the perfect American town. Beautiful homes, manicured lawns, children playing safely in the streets. Now imagine never being able to leave. You think you're going insane...Welcome to Wayward Pines.

Season One stars Matt Dillon as a secret service agent searching for two missing federal agents in this mysterious town. Season Two picks up in the wake of Season One's shocking events. The residents are now battling against the iron-fisted rule of the First Generation – and both sides have to contend with mysterious evil forces that are jeopardising the future of mankind.

New arrival Dr. Theo Yedlin (Jason Patric) awakens from suspended animation and finds himself in the middle of this rebellion. He seeks to understand what's happening and tries to help preserve the endangered human race. Meanwhile, town historian CJ Mitchum (Djimon Hounsou), might be the one person who can provide a bridge between the current world of Wayward Pines and the previous world that humans inhabited.

In Another Life

Adı: Zehra

Be careful what you wish for: sometimes dreams can turn into a living nightmare.

Zehra, 22, was born into a strict Turkish family in Berlin. She was never allowed to go to school and was being forced into an arranged marriage by her parents. Now pregnant by her sweetheart, Kadir, she attempts to elope with him, but she has dishonoured her family and is hunted down by her father and brother and left half-dead on a roadside, with her baby gone.

Zehra wakes in hospital, pretending to suffer from amnesia to keep safe. Eventually she identifies herself as Hande Kurdoğlu – a lookalike who's been missing for seven years. Zehra's convinced she'll be exposed but when Hande's mother flies to Berlin to be reunited with her 'long lost daughter' she is welcomed with open arms and quickly taken 'home' to a mansion in Istanbul. The Kurdoğlu family is delighted to see her, except for her 'brother' Serkan, who knows she is an imposter. Zehra's life is now in a bigger mess than ever before.

Kadir, and Zehra's father and brother, set off to find her in Istanbul. She rekindles her romance with Kadir but it doesn't last and she becomes close to Genco, Hande's childhood sweetheart. Meanwhile, trapped in the mansion, Zehra suspects that Hande's mother is hiding a terrible secret. What has become of the real Hande and what reasons did her mother have for readily welcoming a stranger into the family? Zehra is sure about one thing: she has to find out what happened to the girl whose life she is now living.

Yol Ayrımı

Changing direction puts a man on a new path – but his new – and better – life is not free of obstacles.

Mazhar Kozanlı is a ruthless boss who has dedicated his life to growing the textiles empire he inherited from his father. However, everything changes after he's involved in a serious traffic accident and he decides to choose a different life.

After surviving the accident this "businessman of the year" begins to 'feel' and perceive life in a totally different way. He moves away from his home and starts living at his old friend Altan's apartment. Mazhar witnesses the hard life of his former worker, Emine, and decides to transfer all the shares in the company to his employees. However, his whole family, including his mother Firdevs Kozanlı, and Mr. Besim, the executive director of the company, will not allow him to change the system.

No. 309

A Room to Remember

A deathbed announcement sets off a race to the altar.

In a posthumous video, a rich old man is speaking. The whole family is watching him in tears, but secretly wondering who will get his fortune. He declares: "My dear grandsons... Erol and Onur... whichever of you gets married and has a child before the other, will get my whole share in the company, which is worth 600 million Turkish Lira..." otherwise known as big v!

Desperate to get their hands on the cash, their mothers, Betül and Yıldız, rush to set blind dates for their sons. Forced by his mother, Onur goes to his blind date. There he meets Lale, who was actually there for her own blind date with a young doctor (also called Onur!). Mistaking each other for their expected blind dates, they start to chat. As a result of Erol drugging their drinks, Onur and Lale get drunk and have fun all night long, finally falling asleep in room No. 309 of a hotel.

In the morning, unable to remember anything about the crazy night, they just split, agreeing not to see each other ever again. However, three months later, Lale finds out she is pregnant. And when Onur's grandmother hears the news, she declares that they are obliged to marry. What will this mean for Erol?

Second Chance

Kalbimdeki Deniz

You only find the most precious pearls by diving to the deepest parts of the ocean.

Second Chance is an ambitious and very successful new drama series, featuring some of Turkey's biggest stars. The story focuses on an innocent woman, Deniz, who has everything in life that she could wish for - until her husband disappears without a trace. After losing everything she has ever owned, she is left in dire straits and faces a daily struggle for survival, needing to fight for the sake of her children and elderly father.

Eventually she meets Mirat, who turns out to be a life-saver. Will hope – and courage – get her back her power? Will she be able to trust anyone? And will she find love once again?

With powerful and emotional drama at its core, compelling characters and excellent storytelling with universal themes of love, loss and struggles for survival, Second Chance has quickly established itself as a major hit in Turkey since its autumn 2016 launch.

Here on Earth

Aquí En La Tierra

The interlinking lives of two young men start to change rapidly. Who can they trust?

Here on Earth revolves around the complex crimes and major secrets of one of Mexico's most influential families. With big star names such as Gael García Bernal both on and off-screen, as well as great production values, it is set to be one of this year's biggest new international crime dramas.

The story focuses on two young men from opposite sides of the tracks, Carlos Calles and Adán Cruz. Carlos' life is radically altered when his father, the republic's anti-corruption prosecutor, who has been estranged from him for years, is found dead. Around the same time, Adán, the son of Carlos' family's head of security detail, is disturbed by riots taking place in the village of San Marcos where he lives: rebels are protesting against the construction of a new airport endorsed by Governor Mario Rocha, Carlos' stepfather.

Carlos doubts the 'official' version of his father's death and sets out to investigate, putting himself in danger when there seems to be a link to a controversial former President of the country – who still seems to be pulling strings behind the scenes. Adán meanwhile is getting very close to Governor Rocha. Friends from childhood, despite their different backgrounds and social standing, Carlos and Adán will be forced to face the changing circumstances of both their lives, putting their fears, ambitions and deepest moral dilemmas in to play.

Besieged

Sitiados

The conquest of America, from the perspective of the vanquished.

Besieged, the ratings-winning historical drama, returns for a second season, relocating from Chilean Patagonia to Cartegna in Colombia, to tell a new story of the Spanish Conquest of the Americas. Featuring an incredible cast drawn from all over Latin America (and Spain) and largely shot on Colombia's Caribbean shores, this colourful new series is based on real events and is packed with action and adventure.

Fifteen years after the Villarrica siege in season one, Diego (King Philip III and Isabel de Bastidas' bastard child), arrives in the city of Cartagena, along with his stepfather Agustín, running from those who want to see him dead to prevent him from acceding to the throne of Spain. Cartagena, besieged by English pirates in the Caribbean, is not going to prove a safe harbour so Diego and Agustín will have to fight for their lives once again.

This new season of Besieged is inspired by the several sieges suffered by Cartagena during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries however, fictional stories and characters are woven through the storyline. Not only does Cartagena find itself under siege, but the wide range of characters in the series – from royals to resistance leaders and from pirates to protectors - are also besieged by their circumstances, fate and how they deal with what life throws them.

One Against All

Um Contra Todos

A case of mistaken identity sets a once virtuous man on a different path.

Inspired by a true story, One Against All tells the story of Cadu, a respected and honest public defender who gets wrongly arrested when police mistake him for one of the region's most dangerous and high profile drug dealers – the Doctor of Traffic. He is sent to prison and overnight his life changes dramatically.

In order to survive life in prison he adopts the persona of the Doctor of Traffic, aka Pepe, who gets arrested and makes straight for Cadu's cell...Upon leaving prison Cadu finds it difficult to get a job, but Pepe steps in and after pulling some strings, Cadu is elected as a congressman in Brasilia. Season two follows him on his quick rise up the political ladder but little does he realise at the time, Brasilia is set to become his new prison.

Into season three the winds of change are blowing for Cadu. His son is locked up and he's now a disgraced politician, getting squeezed by the police as they start to uncover the web of secrets, corruption and scandals that surrounded his swift move to power. Life changes again as he becomes a fugitive and gets even closer to Pepe. Will he give Pepe and the cartel up to the police in order to get his regular life back or keep quiet and risk never seeing his family again?

Humanity struggles for survival in a futuristic world.

It's the year 2091: gaming and virtual worlds have been banned but the seven best gamers in the world have been recruited to play an extreme game on the moon of Calisto. Veteran gamer Ferrán soon discovers the grim reality that lurks behind the façade of this game – intriguingly called Reset. The arena is not virtual after all; the gamers are killing real people. Who will return to Earth alive?

2091 is a gripping drama, full of complex characters dealing with everyday problems and deep moral dilemmas. A fascinating storyline and extraordinary sets puts the action clearly in the future, however, at its heart are universal themes about people struggling for survival and redemption.

Jane

The extraordinary woman who unlocked the secret of early man

Using a trove of never-before-seen personal footage and a new interview shot by director Brett Morgen (Kurt Cobain: Montage of Heck) at her home in Africa, this acclaimed film tells the incredible story of renowned British primatologist Jane Goodall.

A long-time animal lover, Jane's dream of living amongst wild animals in Africa became a reality in 1957, when she met Dr. Louis Leakey while visiting a friend in Kenya. Dr. Leakey, a leading anthropologist, believed that the study of apes could offer insights into the origins and behaviour of our Paleolithic ancestors and was looking for someone to help with his research. Despite having no formal training, Leakey knew he had found the perfect candidate in Jane.

At the age of 26 Jane was in Gombe, in the wilds of Tanzania, living among chimpanzees and it is here she made the monumental discovery that would shake the scientific world: that chimpanzees use and modify tools to aid them in catching insects to eat. This film captures everything from her groundbreaking research and close relationships with the chimpanzees, to the life she made in Africa - initially with Hugo van Lawick, the National Geographic filmmaker sent to make a movie about her work and who became her husband – and her continued advocacy today for chimpanzees in the wider world.

Meghan Markle: An American Princess

The inside story of a princess in waiting – from the people who know

Meghan Markle is about to make history. When she marries HRH Prince Harry she will be the first person of black heritage to join the world's most famous blue-blooded Royal family. It's a real life fairy-tale for the American actress. But step behind the gilded curtain, and everything is not as it seems.

Living happily-ever-after in this historic Royal household has never been easy. The pressure to conform is intense and playing by the strict rules of 'The Firm' have driven even the sanest mad... The last American to marry in, Wallis Simpson, was cast into exile and the once-boisterous Fergie, Duchess of York, was vilified by the Royals and press alike. But the real ghost at Harry and Meghan's feast will be his mother, Princess Diana. Can Meghan's fairy-tale romance withstand the pressures of royal life? Can she fill the gaping hole left behind in Harry's life by his late mother? Can Harry protect his new bride from the voracious British press he blames for his mother's death? And what will her life as a British princess really be like?

Packed with behind the scenes actuality, incredible archive and a wide range of insider interviews from people close to Meghan – and the royals - this new documentary will provide a definitive look at the confident, worldly and accomplished woman who could change the Royal family forever.

The Story of Us with Morgan Freeman

Why society, love, rebellion and conflict matter to humanity

How did human civilisation develop? Why do our societies around the world seem so different? And what will society look like in the future, as globalisation and technology upend our ways of life?

At a time when global events seem to be driving cultures apart, this fascinating new series - vast in scope and intimate in style - aims to uncover the fundamental forces that keep our societies together, and to reveal the common humanity that lies inside each one of us. Academy Award®-winning actor Morgan Freeman goes on a global journey to meet people from all cultures whose lives are shaped in surprising ways by these fundamental forces...to understand how human culture has taken so many remarkable forms.

Exploring topics such as beliefs and our quest for freedom, Morgan Freeman examines everything from what sets us apart from the rest of the animal kingdom, to the wars and bloody conflicts that seem to propel society forward, despite us striving to live in peace. He explores our need for the basic tribal bonds that allow societies to thrive and probes how shifts in power dynamics have shaped the world. He also looks at the spirit of rebellion and those individuals who desire to remake society and asks how love, as a primal force, impacts on cultures around the world and where love will take us in the future.

The Story of God with Morgan Freeman

A quest to understand the divine

After the international, critical success of season one, Academy Award-winning actor Morgan Freeman returns for a second season of this epic series, taking viewers around the world on a quest to understand the connections and common ground between the world's major religions.

Each episode examines a different big theme: Why do we need Chosen Ones? What are Heaven and Hell? Can we find Proof of God? To explore each of these topics, Freeman meets with followers of every kind of religion, from a nine-year-old boy in Minnesota who is a reincarnated Tibetan Lama, to a woman who "speaks in tongues" as part of her Pentecostal faith, to a man who felt God's presence when he survived the 9/11 attacks on the World Trade Centre. These themes come alive in the Golden Temple of the Sikh faithful in India, the Christian celebration of Meskel in Ethiopia, and the piercing rituals of the Nine Emperor Gods Festival in Thailand.

Freeman speaks to people from all cultures and faiths with an easy intimacy, and his curiosity and fascination with the subject of religion is genuine. His incredible journey shows that the big questions in life are universal human concerns, no matter to which religion we adhere.

Chain of Command

From the corridors of power to the boots on the ground

Narrated by actor Chris Evans (Captain America), Chain of Command is a compelling new series providing an intimate portrait of the war against violent extremism, and the men and women who devote their lives to the fight. With unprecedented access to the US Armed Forces, Chain of Command inhabits the rarely glimpsed, innermost sanctums of the Pentagon, battlefields across the world, and even the cockpit of a fighter jet on a mission.

From the halls of power in Washington, D.C., to the front lines in Iraq, Afghanistan, Somalia, Niger and South America, and to the surprising ISIS recruiting ground of Trinidad and Tobago - only 1,600 miles from the coast of Florida - viewers will see firsthand how decisions made at the Pentagon have a direct impact on service members on the ground; those brave military personnel fighting to protect America and its allies from radicalised extremists.

The series was filmed over an 18-month period and succeeded in capturing interviews with a wide range of decision makers, including General Joseph Dunford Jr, America's current chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as well as Jared Kushner's briefing on his visit to Iraq in April 2017. National Geographic obtained privileged entry to the most secretive worlds of the US military and can now uniquely show how policy implements strategy and then how that strategy is executed on the front lines.

America Inside Out with Katie Couric

Today's hot topics - under the microscope

Inspired by her own personal journey on Gender Revolution, award-winning journalist Katie Couric is diving head first into some of the most taboo topics shaping our world (and keeping us divided) today. Katie's exploration will take her on a global journey that challenges people's unique notions on topics in the zeitgeist such as racism, terrorism and sexism: if it's hard to talk about, it's on the table.

Katie's respectful curiosity and willingness to learn make her the perfect conduit for building an understanding out of the most contentious subjects today - from how technology is changing our brains to exploring what it's like to be Muslim in America.

Along the way she will enlist individuals with distinct knowledge on various subjects to join her on this journey – everyone from Hollywood actors Julianne Moore, Aasif Mandvi and Viola Davis, to Patrick McMullen, a man living with an implanted microchip, futurist Ray Kurzweil and black artist Coco Fusco. Katie and her co-hosts are acknowledging assumptions, owning the bias and going face-to-face with the intimate complexities of the changing world in which we live. But, more than just hearing what people say and feel, Katie dives into these subjects using hard data, statistics and the latest research to bring us the total picture in an intimate, accessible and uniquely human way.

Rocky Mountain Animal Rescue

Working together to help animals in need

Rocky Mountain Rescue is a pacey new obs-doc series that combines the best of animal law enforcement programming with a full access veterinary show. From officers carrying out dramatic pet rescues on snow-capped mountains to heroic vets performing life-saving surgeries, the extraordinary staff at the Humane Society of Colorado's Pikes Peak Region risk their lives and give their hearts to save all pets big and small. With 5,400 square miles of rugged terrain in their jurisdiction, the Pikes Peak team works together to rescue, rehabilitate and adopt out over 40,000 animals a year.

Come along every step of the way as these amazing dramas unfold – from the moment a patrol officer gets an emergency call, then into the operating room as vets do the impossible to save these animals' lives, and finally to meeting the adopting families giving rescued animals a new beginning. Every episode shows the grit and heart that goes into a day's work for these incredible animal protectors as they complete their mission to protect and serve animals in need.

Set against the backdrop of the majestic Rocky Mountains and using a mix of filming techniques, including verité style and shooting from the animals' perspective, the series is packed with incredible stories of nature, animals and unwavering perseverance from the officers and veterinarians of the Pikes Peak Patrol.

China from Above

Amazing images of an extraordinary country

This stunning new series is an epic exploration of China from the skies. Natural wonders, mega-engineering marvels and a rich social tapestry are revealed with breathtaking aerial views. China is physically vast, from towering mountains to the biggest ports in the world – to see it from above is fittingly epic. Equally compelling is China's cultural heart. Unseen human stories represent the country's blend of reverence for tradition and vigour for the industrialising modern world.

The first episode explores the country's eastern provinces, home to China's most populated cities, where billion dollar infrastructure projects connect cities and regions. One of the most ambitious examples of this is the longest sea bridge on Earth, connecting Hong Kong, Zhuhai and Macau. Episode two ventures across China's central interior; an area fed by Asia's longest rivers. This is where China's cultural heartland resides. However, being a cultural stronghold does not equate to a lack of growing infrastructure and progress. The largest municipality in the world is found here, Chongqing. Today, some of the once-rural districts of inland China are now hot on the heels of the coast's industrialisation feats.

From Tibet's Potala Palace to the Longmen Grottoes, this breathtaking aerial journey showcases some of China's most esteemed sites and illuminates the diverse stories of its people and the ways they are responding to urbanisation and cultural change.

One of the world's best-loved motoring shows, Car S.O.S. has achieved audiences of 300% above slot average on National Geographic

Car S.O.S. regularly attracts big name special guests. Celebrities featured to date include Sir Roger Moore, Sir Sterling Moss and James Nesbitt

Car S.O.S.

Rescuing rusty classics

Continuing their mission to save every decayed classic car they can get their hands on, the Car S.O.S. crew returns for a sixth fascinating – and heartwarming – series. Parts-blagging petrol-head Tim Shaw and master mechanic Fuzz Townshend are determined to hunt down charismatic cars with deserving owners and get them back on the road where they belong.

In this series the boys have lined up a pretty impressive selection of iconic cars spanning the decades, including a 1990s Lancia Delta Integrale – which proves one of their greatest mechanical challenges to date - a 1960s Citroen DS, a 1965 VW Karmann Ghia and a 1950s MG MGA with a particularly poignant owner's story.

Tim and Fuzz steal the cars away from under the noses of the unsuspecting owners – who may have lost their motoring mojo through ill health or personal circumstances – and whisk it away to their Car S.O.S. workshop, to do them up before they are missed. Having made good on their promise to renovate each car to an almost showroom standard, the boys then conspire with the owner's friends and family to unveil their hard work in a crafty ruse that maximises the impact of what is invariably a very emotional surprise.

No two days are ever the same for Dr. Michelle Oakley, the only all-species vet for hundreds of miles in Canada's Yukon. She could be chasing boars by helicopter, stalking wolverines in the wilderness, or facing any number of new challenges with the amazing animals of the north. Animals are incredibly important to the people of the Yukon, and Dr. Oakley will do anything to keep them safe and healthy.

In this fourth season a routine horse examination turns up something suspicious, baby owls get their first check-up, a camel gets the hump when Michelle tries to neuter it and an arthritic jaguar is helped back on his feet.

Wild Edens: Russia

Celebrating Russia's most amazing locations and iconic wildlife

Wild Edens: Russia is a landmark and cinematic new hour that captures the impressive range of breath-taking scenery and richly diverse wildlife that exists across Russia's 12 time zones: from the frozen tundra region in the far north, across vast temperate forests, to the Caucasus Mountains and prairie grasslands in the south.

In the east, on the borders with Mongolia and China for example, we visit the Altai Mountains, searching for grey wolves and elusive snow leopards. Then it's on to the Amur region, where some 2800 plant and 500 animal species inhabit the Russian side of the Amur river alone. In the remote, volcanic Kamchatka region, home to one of the largest geyser fields in the world, we see bears fishing in salmon-packed rivers. Meanwhile, in Siberia and the Arctic we follow migrating reindeer, Beluga whales, bearded seals and capture muskox, the last surviving members of a group of ice-age oxen.

With an award-winning team behind the camera, who have worked on landmark natural history programming such as Frozen Planet, Life in Cold Blood and Planet Earth, this gorgeous new documentary uses a wide range of filming techniques, from aerial and time-lapse to nighttime shooting with starlight cameras, to explore each region and its varied wildlife in captivating detail.

Most people in the world who have a cat understand the wild look in their pet's eye. This new film looks at the thinly veiled behaviours between domestic cats and their wild cousins and ancestors, specifically to draw those parallels and to explain to 'owners' (if one ever owns a cat) what they are seeing when they watch their pet.

Using a range of big cat footage of lions and cheetahs hunting, playing, bonding and mating and comparing it to footage of domestic cats undertaking similar activities, we'll get to the heart of what makes a cat a cat. Along the way we'll see just how similar their behaviour is and how close our pets are to some of the wildest and most dangerous creatures on earth.

But how do they do it?

To find out we meet them in their natural habitat and explore the tunnels of their 'hive', while scientists connect their lifestyle to physiological adaptations and show how, for example, acidic tissues defeat tumours. As we unravel findings that have a major impact on medicine, this fascinating investigative journey may just pave the way to our own immortality.

Storm Cats

Big cat behaviour in the rainy season

Africa's big cats lead a predictable life. But for a few intense weeks, dramatic storms shatter their routine. As the fleeting wet season gets into full swing, the land transforms and we see Impala ewes drop their lambs, providing easy prey for the inexperienced cheetahs. As the season draws to a close, the cheetahs master the art of killing and for the little lions cubs, hunting school has just begun.

Cities at Night

Ciudades de Noche

Cities at Night is a beautifully produced new series that visits some of Spain's most famous locations once the sun goes down. Each episode focuses on one specific city and we get to visit both high profile and iconic places - as well as special hidden spaces - with a local celebrity acting as our nocturnal guide. These famous urban adventurers are perfect hosts as each has a special link with the city they are exploring and therefore able to give a very personal perspective.

Actor Fernando Andina, for example, hails from Madrid and is passionate about the great theatres in the city. He takes us to the Gran Via, the Plaza Callao and the Malasaña neighbourhood – areas in which he has celebrated his own successes. Singer Falete meanwhile guides us around Seville, taking in the area of Triana, where he began his career, Calle Betis where locals meet, and Los Martínez, where artists gather for improvised jam sessions.

From parks and cathedrals to restaurants, vantage points and buzzing night clubs, Cities at Night presents an absorbing and fascinating alternative to a conventional travel documentary. In addition to Madrid and Seville, other Spanish cities explored are popular holiday hotspots Barcelona, Valencia, Granada and Malaga, as well as Bilbao, Zaragoza, Leon, Cordoba, A Coruña and Gijón.

Native American Hazen Audel has spent more than 20 years embracing life with indigenous groups and navigating extreme terrains

Primal Survivor

Can tribal techniques help Hazen survive?

Hazen Audel, survival instructor and wilderness guide, returns for a new series travelling to some of the most extreme places on the planet to take on solo challenges that will push him to the limit of his knowledge, endurance and skills. To succeed he will rely on the ancient techniques of indigenous peoples who have lived in these environments for thousands of years.

In the Western Pacific Hazen embarks on a huge ocean journey in a tiny traditional boat called a "tatala". Battling powerful ocean currents and violent tropical storms he must dig deep to make it to the fishing grounds and catch a big fish, to prove to the Tao tribe that he is worthy of their respect. In Mexico he takes on a deadly solo run in a deep canyon, with only the traditional sandals of the Raramuri for protection against mountainous terrain and venomous animals.

In further adventures that will take him from the parched sands of the Australian and Namibian deserts to the dense jungles of Indonesia and the barren freezing wastes of North East Canada, Hazen will be pushed to the limit by each different environment and answer the killer question – how does anyone survive here?

In various parts of the world valuable underwater reserves of natural gas are almost impossible – or uneconomic – to reach. But in Malaysia, Petronas, the state-owned oil and gas business, has built a megastructure of unconventional proportions to solve the problem: a technological marvel that will change the landscape of liquefied natural gas production forever.

Planned over 10 years and measuring 300-metres-long and 10-storeys high, the Petronas Floating Liquefied Natural Gas (PFLNG) vessel 'Satu' eliminates the need for pipelines by liquefying – and thereby stabilising – the gas at sea, which is a major first. This new hour explores this game-changing megastructure and examines the cutting-edge technology that allows it to travel to remote gas fields and then extract, liquefy and store the gas, ready for transportation.

Science of Stupid

The cold hard science behind foolish misadventure

Science of Stupid - the show that combines cold hard science with some of the craziest, most spectacular and painful user-generated clips ever recorded - is back for a fifth incredible season.

Once again, Dallas Campbell introduces a host of brand new mishaps featuring brave, if misguided, individuals from around the world and then explains the science behind their failure and humiliation with the use of bespoke animations and super slo-mo cinematography. Clips are paused, re-wound, and re-played as we analyse exactly what went wrong and why. Dallas explains the physics, chemistry and biology at play by presenting forensic detail to explain the stupidity that resulted in the failure. He'll study everything from acceleration to aero dynamics, fluid pressure to combustion and human anatomy to flammability.

Each episode shows between 50 and 60 clips of misadventure – ordinary folk making extraordinary mistakes – and clearly demonstrates that there are numerous ways to humiliate yourself whilst while doing anything from canoeing and motorcycling, to jumping over nets or even simply balancing things on your head.

Titanic: 20 Years Later with James Cameron

The story continues

James Cameron's movie Titanic was arguably the most ambitious production in the history of cinema: unprecedented in scope, painstakingly mounted and exhaustively researched. Cameron envisioned his film as "living history," giving audiences the experience of being there when the great ocean liner tipped into the sea.

He would tell a fictional drama but framed within an accurate depiction of the historical event. To pull that off, he gathered the world's foremost experts on Titanic to consult during production of the film. Now, 20 years later, Cameron gathers his team of experts to re-open the case file on this most famous maritime disaster, asking: "What did we get right...and what did we get wrong?"

Looking through the filter of the film itself, and the choices Cameron made as a filmmaker, the team explores Titanic's final hours through the microscope of what they know now. Cameron talks to descendants of some of Titanic's passengers, hearing their unique stories about the disaster and how the film affected them. He also looks back at the extraordinary impact of Titanic, 20 years later. It was a film intended for the widest possible audience, but even Cameron himself couldn't have imagined how far and how deeply it would reach.

Secrets Of Christ's Tomb

Opening the tomb uncovers new revelations

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem houses what many believe to be the tomb of Jesus: the final resting place of Christ before his resurrection. It is "Ground Zero" for Christianity and has been visited by millions of pilgrims for almost 2,000 years.

In this new hour we follow leading experts, including biblical scholar Professor Joan Taylor and National Geographic archaeologist Dr. Frederick Hiebert, on a quest to unlock the mysteries surrounding the tomb. At the heart of the story we see scientists using the latest scientific techniques to restore the edicule or "little house" enclosing the tomb. Tests indicate that the tomb dates to at least the fourth century - a discovery that could revolutionise what we know about the tomb of Christ.

The worst civil unrest in U.S. history

In the spring of 1991, Rodney King, a black man, was secretly beaten by four white Los Angeles police officers after a high-speed chase. A nearby resident videotaped the beating from the balcony of his apartment. When the videotape was broadcast on national television there was an immediate outcry from the community.

The next year, in what was to be the “slam dunk, open and shut case of the century”, the police officers were tried and found not guilty. The city exploded in rage and sadness, and descended into crisis. The verdict took the city, the nation and the world by surprise - from government officials to average citizens. Even the defence lawyers anticipated that there would be some convictions. What followed was three days of burning, looting and killing that some have called the worst riots in U.S. history. The events scarred Los Angeles and captured world attention.

From TJ Martin and Daniel Lindsay, the Oscar-winning directors of Undefeated, and Simon Chinn and Jonathan Chinn, the Oscar and Emmy-winning producers of Searching for Sugarman, Man On Wire and 30 Days, comes an immersive, visceral and highly relevant documentary experience about America’s recent past.

Nazi Megastructures

Hidden remains of Hitler's most ambitious megastructures

Nazi Megastructures is back with a compelling fourth season uncovering the hidden remains of some of Hitler's most ambitious projects, telling the stories of the engineers that built them and revealing how these incredible structures played their part in changing warfare forever.

Dramatic reconstruction, CGI, rarely seen archive and personal testimony are woven through each episode, bringing individual stories to life. In addition, we gain a clear understanding of the full impact of each terrifying mega weapon or powerful machine.

The Nazis' impressive railway network was arguably its biggest ever megastructure and is analysed across two episodes. One explores the network that spread Nazi ambition and control across Europe and beyond, looking at Hitler's personal train, the massive depots and record-breaking engines. The other episode looks at the rail network's most sinister function, facilitating the Final Solution. Further episodes explore the Nazi defensive lines that stretched across the entire Italian peninsula and stalled the Allies' advance, the revolutionary Luftwaffe, and Hitler's extensive arctic fortress in Norway. In addition, we also investigate Hitler's brilliant propaganda machine, masterminded by Josef Goebbels, and look for an explanation as to how an entire nation became so brainwashed.

Nazi World War Weird

Strange but true tales from WW2

6 x 60 NEW

HD

An InFocus Asia Production
for National Geographic Asia

Seven decades on from WW2, as living memory fades, the dark corners of the web are teeming with tales of the bizarre. Dr. Sam Willis, a UK-based historian, and Robert Joe (RJ), a Korean-American urban explorer, combine their talents to embark on a journey to set the record straight.

They're one of the oddest partnerships since Mulder and Scully, and just as determined to get to the truth that's out there. Whether it's reports of Nazis dabbling in the occult, the world's worst man-eating crocodile attack, or a long-lost train carrying stolen gold, a path of twists and turns will show us that, when it comes to war, truth is often weirder than fiction.

WW2 Drain the Ocean

New war stories from the seabed

HD

A Mallinson Sadler Production
for National Geographic

World War Two left the greatest-ever number of ships and submarines hidden beneath the waves. Now, as the oceans drain, each vessel tells its tale, with surveys and scans allowing for new data-based 3D reconstructions – and a whole new set of explanations.

We travel from Pearl Harbour and the wreck of the Arizona, where new evidence confirms who fired the first shots, to the coast of North Carolina, where we reveal how hidden U-boats were so successful. Then onto Europe, where a look at the Nazi supership Bismarck sheds light on whether she was sunk or scuttled, and an investigation into the sinking of SS Leopoldville shows that hundreds of troops died needlessly.

Created by Oscar and Emmy® award-winning producers of Titanic and The Lost Tomb of Jesus

The legend of the lost city of Atlantis has sparked controversy and debate for thousands of years – but is the story fact or fiction? Atlantis Rising follows executive producer and Academy Award®-winner James Cameron; three-time Emmy®-winning filmmaker Simcha Jacobovici; and a group of archaeologists, scientists and historians as they set out to search for the true "Atlantean" civilisation and for a possible location for the lost city itself.

Using clues from the original source of the story of Atlantis penned by fourth century B.C. Greek philosopher Plato, combined with archaeological evidence, this epic detective story explores multiple land and underwater sites, with extraordinary underwater footage, CGI and aerial photography bringing the investigation to life.

Gary Mehigan is one of Australia's most high-profile chefs. As well as writing cookbooks and judging MasterChef for 10 years he has presented numerous other programmes and is even featured in Australia's Who's Who

Masters of Taste with Gary Mehigan

Celebrating the complex flavours of India

Gary Mehigan knows good food. This English-born Australian chef trained at The Connaught in London and worked in some of Melbourne's finest establishments before starting his own restaurant in the city. He's also a judge on MasterChef Australia. In this new series he's travelled to India to celebrate his love of Indian cuisine and to cook up some colourful new dishes along the way.

With his trademark straight-talking and humorous approach, Gary sets out to visit some of the best restaurants in Mumbai and Delhi, exploring their melting pot of flavours and learning about the breadth of skills and ingredients used in modern Indian cooking. He also meets some of India's most renowned chefs, including Atul Kochhar, Ranveer Brar and Thomas Zacharias, and cooks a range of tasty dishes with them.

Every episode ends with Gary back in his own kitchen, inventing a new restaurant standard dish that viewers can recreate at home. Each new dish will have been inspired by the people he has met and the places he has visited – and he'll put it to the ultimate taste test by inviting a local chef, celebrity, or maybe even a Bollywood star, to come over and enjoy his creation with him.

Mega Kitchens

How to cook for thousands, every day

Mega Kitchens returns for a third incredible season, taking an unrivalled look at how some of India's – and the world's - largest kitchens succeed in catering for thousands of people every day.

First we look at Lijat Papad, a business established in 1959 by seven women who made papads – or crackers – as a way to escape poverty. It now has 82 branches and 45,000 member sisters and its mega kitchens produce more than 13 million padpads a day. Next it's off to Bodhygaya in central Bihar, where Buddha found enlightenment under the Bodhi tree. Here we visit the Kal Chakra, the largest gathering of Tibetan Buddhists in the world, held every four years. Three temporary kitchens cook for more than 200,000 people, three times a day. Over the course of 12 days they serve nearly a million litres of tea and make three million baleps, a special Tibetan bread.

Finally, we check out the world's largest community kitchen at the Golden Temple in Amritsar, where an army of volunteers creates up to 100,000 free meals every day – and twice that during major festivals. The flat bread machines churn out 11,000 every hour and 60,000kgs of lentils are cooked every month. This fascinating series takes us to the frontlines of mass food production and distribution, showcasing the incredible people, equipment and detailed logistics that are needed to run India's Mega Kitchens.

Competition Show

The new competitive cookery show that genuinely helps people set up in business

Grilled

A recipe for success

Take 12 food lovers – from owners of small food businesses to home cooks – mix in a celebrity chef, a successful food entrepreneur and a celebrity foodie, add a sprinkling of challenges in real life restaurants and finish with a chance for them to own their dream restaurant and you have Grilled – an innovative new competition show for aspiring food entrepreneurs.

Set in a different restaurant each week to showcase different cuisines, clientele and experiences, the contestants set out to prove their worth over a series of challenges designed to test their skills as restaurateurs. These include menu pricing, handling angry diners, minimizing wastage and working under pressure in the kitchen.

Chef Sarah Todd, former MasterChef Australia finalist and owner of a new restaurant in Goa, Riyaaz Amlani, one of India's biggest food barons with more than 40 restaurants, and fussy foodie and celebrity music composer Vishal Dadlani are on hand as mentors. They assess if the contestants have the necessary vision, creativity and ability to run a restaurant of their own. Each week the mentors choose one winning contestant and two weak links. Out of the bottom two, the weakest performer with the worst business plan gets eliminated. At the end of the series the winning contestant is offered seed funding for their dream restaurant and the chance to partner with Riyaaz Amlani.
